About the Investigators and Their Research in Forgiveness

This research team is headed by Dr. Ming Tsuang, who has collaborated with Dr. Lindon Eaves and other researchers at Boston University, such as Dr. Michael Lyons. These researchers have been able to use large twin registries to begin the study of genetic contributions to forgiveness. In their particular project, which has completed data gathering phase, but has not begun to publish the results yet, they study twins—one of whom saw combat in Vietnam and one of whom didn't. They examine dispositional forgivingness and the roles of genetics and situation on the expression of the gene.
